Dear Secretary Dortch:

I am writing to you in my capacity as a citizen and former public safety professional to ask for your support in the FCC's indoor location accuracy proposal. For over 30 years, I served in law enforcement and was privileged to serve as Undersheriff of Wakulla County, Florida. Today, I continue to serve by working as Director of the Wakulla County Senior Citizens Center.

We must keep pace with the technology of the day to ensure we can serve those who need it most. With landlines becoming increasingly obsolete in our cell-phone dominated world, adjustments to our emergency response technology are needed to keep pace. 70 percent of all 9-1-1 calls are made by cell phone. Unfortunately, it's often difficult for 9-1-1 operators to geographically locate these callers if the call is made indoors. The FCC's proposal establishes indoor location accuracy standards for these calls, and can save thousands of lives.

Due to their financial interests, cell phone companies are attempting to foil the FCC's proposal by submitting a plan that fails to even mention indoor location accuracy. Such a plan is an injustice to victims of an emergency and the first responders who try to help them.

SERVICES

Show cell phone companies that public safety comes before their paycheck and support the FCC's original proposal.
